ODD MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

Strings Played With Bow, but Horn Gives Out Sound.

Among the variety of odd musical instruments that have been recently designed by musical burhans, one of the strangest is that shown in the illustration. This combination of horn and violin, the work of an Oklahoma man, is capable of producing tones of the weirdest nature and is especially effective in descriptive music. It consists of a neck and bridge like those of a violin, but the

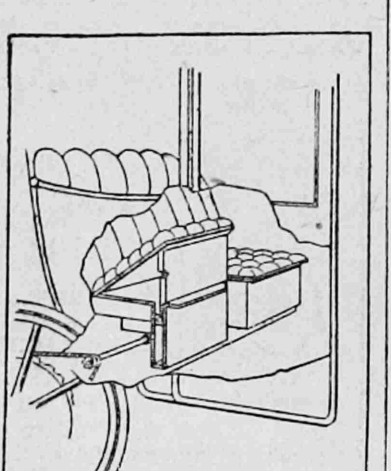

PRODUCES WEIRD TONES.

diaphragm is a little sound box leading into a large horn. The instrument is tucked under the chin like a violin and played upon with a bow, but the sounds that emanate from the mouth of the horn would never be recognized as the notes of any member of the fiddle family.
In the numerous musical "stunts" which have been seen on the vaudeville stage in recent years different types of violin bells have been much in evidence, and all sorts of shifts have been resorted to to produce the mournful tones which are the characteristic of this instrument.

CAN'T KNOCK DOWN FARES

Seats Register All the Time Persons Are Sitting on Them.
If the trolley companies that are experimenting with pay-within-and pay-as-you-enter cars could make use of the invention of a Nebraska inventor, their problem of getting passengers to pay their fares would be solved. The invention of a Nebraska inventor, which would be sold and conducted with peculiar ideas of ownership would find it impossible to knock down fares. This invention is a passenger register, for public vehicles, but is adapted for use in carriages and coaches and not in cars.
The seats are in sections and mounted on springs. When not in use they are partially raised, but when a person sits on them

TELLS DISTANCE, TOO.

they close and set in operation an electric registering device which registers the length of time the person is seated, the number of persons who use the seat and the distance covered during the time the seats are occupied. The last mentioned figures are obtained by means of a chain gear which is attached to a wheel of the carriage, and which works after the method of the device used in taxicabs.

SCIENCE NOTES

The increased traffic attracted to the vicinity of the new station at Washington is so great that it has been found necessary to effect the movement of the trolley cars at that point by some special arrangement. The problem was found by the engineers to be a very complex one but has been solved by the use of signal towers at the important switching points.

These towers are ornate structures, consisting of small cables mounted on poles and raised about eight feet above the sidewalk, so that the switchman has a clear view of the car lines. The signals consist of colored lights placed under cable openings in the car tracks. An interlocking switch and signal system is employed to prevent mistakes on the part of the switchman. The system will not show clear until the switch has been properly thrown, and thereafter the switch lever cannot be operated until the car crosses over the signal. This system has been in operation a sufficient length of time to fully demonstrate its value to the satisfaction of all the parties concerned, including the public.

In the harvesting of sugar cane the use of machinery has made but little progress because of the complexities of the requirements, but there is a machine experimental use on the fields of Cuba, the invention of a resident of the United States—A. N. Hadley, of Indianapolis, Ind.—which promises to replace the labor of man in this work to a very great degree.

Gasoline or oil is the fuel used for operating. The machine cuts the cane at the bottom, strips it, tops it, ties it into bundles and dumps it in a cart. The experimental machine weighs 6,500 pounds, but changes are contemplated for making it weigh less than 1,000 pounds.
Figures compiled by the Forestry Service show that the United States is annually consuming three times as much wood as is being produced within its borders in the same time.

A well-known Celestial diplomat, who has for years attracted world-wide attention because of his humor and also his wisdom, has recently announced with semi-seriousness that he has started a "live-forever" club, and one of the rules which he follows in his effort to attain life everlasting is that he has started a club of the use of salt. The wisdom of this altitude has been recently vindicated by the investigations of one of the scientific workers in the United States, who has who has arrived at the conclusion that the people of this country use more salt than is necessary for their health. It has been determined that salt added to our food to the proportion of 4 parts to 1,000 assists the operation of digestion, while more than that is harmful. The average consumption per day is more than 22 parts to 1,000.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, after a prolonged experiment with the use of telephones for train dispatching, has adopted them on the most important division of the line, consisting of 165 miles of double track, between Rock Island and Blue Island. The superintendent of the Illinois Central states that within a year all the trains on the main line will be moved by telephone and the telephone for the movement of trains is in use on 1,400 miles of the Burlington line, so that it seems that the telephone is an assured success for railroad work.
